

"What can I say about working with Michele? The word that always comes to mind is "Magic". Michele is an incredible listener and coach, she can identify and reframe problems in a way that leads you to your own solutions. She is an incredible observer and can identify issues within the team through body language and what people do not say. Things that we as leaders tend to overlook. She is able to draw things out of a team that they may not initially have the courage to speak up about. Her other talent is on the financial side of the business. She understands business accounting and pairs that with a financial mindset, things we are not even aware of that keep us stuck. The way we look at money, things from our childhoods or our past, that we are not even conscious of. If you are looking to understand yourself better, gain insight and clarity to make better decisions and improve the finances of your business, Michele is the perfect person to help you!"
